Baſtia, in Corſica, Sept. 1.

THOUGH meaſures had been taken, which it was hoped would have put a ſtop to the outrages of the banditti, they ſeem rather to increaſe. A convoy, eſcorted by 12 grenadiers, from Corte to Niolo, was lately ſet upon, and ſeized by them, after killing three of their grenadiers, and the reſt with difficulty made their eſcape.

Hague Sept. 6. The ſickneſs among the horned cattle continues to rage in the United Provinces. A liſt is publiſhed of the number of thoſe which have been ſeized with it in the province of Holland alone, by which it appears that the dead amount to 171, 780, and that thoſe which recovered amount to 65, 536.

From the Viſtula, Sept. 12. Prince Nicolas Repnin having informed field Marſhal Romanzoff that the Turks were fortifying themſelves on this ſide the Danube, near Giurgiovo, and that they had formed intrenchments, which would contain 30000 men; on this advice the Marſhal ordered the former to attack them; but the Prince repreſenting to him, that the troops under his command were much inferior to the enemy, the command was taken from him, and given to Lieutenant General d'Eſſen, who attacked the Turkiſh intrenchments, but met with a repulſe, wherein Major General Tſchertoriſkioi, a Colonel, five General Officers, and nine other inferior ones, were killed, and eleven other Officers wounded; beſides about 800 private men killed. The attack continued for about four hours, and the Ruſſians brought off their wounded to Bucharеſt.

Prince Repnin has drawn up an account of the affair, which he has ſent off to Peterſbourg, after which he fell ſick at Bucharеſt.

Bergamo Aug. 17. On the 15th inſt. about two o'clock in the morning, an earthquake happened in the valley of Magna, which threw down part of the adjacent mountain, by which great miſchief was done to the neighbouring villages. Near the ſame ſpot a large opening was made in the ground, from which a great quantity of water iſſued. The ſame ſhock was felt at the mountain of Brianza, but it was not attended with any fatal conſequences.

Paris Sept. 20. A duty of 90 livres per quintal is laid on all books, old or new, bound or in ſheets, that ſhall be brought into this kingdom for the time to come.

LONDON, September 28.

At the Court at St. James's, the 25th Day of Sept. 1771.

PRESENT,

The King's Moſt Excellent Majeſty in Council.

HIS Majeſty in Council was this day pleaſed to order, that the parliament which ſtands prorogued to Tueſday the firſt day of October next ſhould be further prorogued to Tueſday the twenty-ſixth day of November following.

Sept. 28. Yeſterday a committee of Merchants deputed by the corporation of Dublin, waited on the right Hon. the Lord-Mayor, and preſented the following reſolutions, as a teſtimony of their gratitude for his conduct and perſeverance in the cauſe of liberty.

At the Guildhall, on the 13th of July, 1771, being publick Quarter-Day of the Guild of Merchants, Dublin, the following reſolutions were agreed to Reſolved, That it is the opinion of this Guild, that the freedom of the preſs is one of the chief bulwarks of the conſtitutional liberties of theſe kingdoms.

Reſolved, That the ſincere thanks of this Guild be preſented to the Right Honourable Braſs Croſby, Eſq; Lord-Mayor of the city of London, John Wilks, and Richard Oliver, Eſqrs. Aldermen of the ſame, for their upright and manly perſeverance in the cauſe of conſtitutional liberty, particularly manifeſted by their ſpirited and ſucceſsful endeavours in reſcuing the Printers, of London from the arbitrary and deſpotic hands of illicit power, and thereby ſecuring the peace honour and dignity of that great city, and theſe kingdoms.

Ordered, That the aforeſaid reſolutions be printed in the Freeman's Journal, Dublin Journal, and Saunders's News-letter, and that a fair copy thereof, be tranſmitted by the Maſters and Wardens of this Guild, under the corporation ſeal, to the above-named Gentlemen. Signed by order.

BENJAMIN TAYLOR, Clerk of the Guild.

Extract of a letter from Capt. Robert Dunn, of the snow Esher, dated St. John, Antigua, Aug. 19.

"Yesterday ended the trial of George Washington, alias Fisher, Pirate-Captain; John Cooper, Chief Mate; John Barlow, Carpenter; Thomas Jenkins, Thomas Ternay, and James Butrell, Seaman; late belonging to the snow Esther, for the piratically running away with the said vessel, and murdering Charles Phinnie; when they were all condemned to be hanged on the 24th instant, the two former in chains. They arraigned the justice of the Court, damned the Judges, and behaved in the most insolent and audacious manner; telling the spectators, especially the sailors, that were they out they would behave worse than they had ever done, and asking the Judges whether they might not be ashamed to condemn so many stout young men for so trifling a crime as they had been guilty of."

The City of Jerusalem has, we are told, submitted to Ali Bey. Amazing are the revolutions this antient city has undergone. Jews, Christians, Turks and Pagans, have alternately possessed it.

The Ministry have at last caught Dr. Wilson; they are to have him indicted on the black act for assembling, with others, in a riotous manner, disguised in an Alderman's gown, Saturday morning at Guildhall. The penalty is transportation for seven years.

The heirs at law of the Rev. Dr. Wilson are determined immediately to take out a commission of lunacy against him, to prevent a second Pynsent affair. They are to rest the proof of madness principally on his rambling through the mob Saturday morning disguised in an Alderman's gown.

Sept. 30. Most of the English in the service of the Russian fleet, on the dismission of Admiral Elphinstone, refused to serve under Count Orlow, whose brother is a great favourite with the Empress at present.

Private letters from Ireland assure, that the patriotic party there are not so weak as has been represented, but that great opposition is expected to be made to some intended measures.

In a letter received from a gentleman in town, from an English officer in the Russian service, he says, that the troops are equal to any in agility, discipline, courage, and superior to all in bearing fatigue.

October 1. A writer, who signs himself. "The state watch-man," gave the public the following intelligence this morning; the probability of which is left to the judgment of the reader.

"It is now upwards of six weeks since Lord Camden paid a very private visit to the Duke of Grafton in the country, Mr. Nuttal, the Solicitor of the Treasury, was also down at his Lordship's country seat at the same time. Many changes in the Ministry were at the time absolutely fixed upon, and those changes have had the approbation of a certain great personage, but they will not take effect till a few days before the approaching session of Parliament.

"From a few hints that were accidentally let fall at this meeting, relative to the high price that Bank stock has been at for 6 or 7 years past, the Duke of Grafton, who, it seems, is soon to resume his old place of first Lord commissioner of the Treasury, has been constantly meditating how, and in what degree, he can turn the present high price of Bank stock to the account and emolument of government.

"And it has been whispered for this month past, that his Grace, upon that maxim of our laws, which allows that the power which can make, may also unmake, an Act of Parliament, is determined to dissolve the present government and company of the Bank of England, although by an Act passed 4 Geo. III. they are not dissolvable till the year 1778."

We are informed that it has been the constant custom whenever the French Monarch comes out of Versailles, or any of his palaces, for the people to crowd round the carriage, and salute him with the cry of Vive le Roi. But since the many acts of tyranny, under which the French suffer, they have turned their backs to the coach in sullen disdain. A poor infirm old woman was standing with a little basket of cakes, to sell in the outward court of Versailles, some little time ago, when Louis came out of the palace, and drove to the spot where the old woman was, before she could get out of the way; on her not giving the usual salutation, one of the Guards rode up to her, and demanded, why she did not cry Vive le Roi. ? I would, replied the old woman, with all my soul, but was afraid the people would have stoned me to death if I had.

Oct. 2. A morning paper says, notwithstanding the Ministry confidently deny the fact, it is certain the French were concerned in setting fire to the dock-yard at Portsmouth: and we can from undoubted authority declare, that a Frenchman who for some years past resided in London, and who it has lately appeared was a spy for the court of Versailles, lately decamped a la sourdine: he is now in Paris, and declared to an Englishman, with whom he had been intimate some years before his departure, that there was an absolute necessity for his leaving this kingdhm, as the Ministry had discovered that he was concerned in the conflagration question, and if he staid he should certainly be hanged.—Spies, it seems, had been employed to watch him, and they had discovered his connections with the French Ambassador, people in the dock-yard, &c.

October 3. The success that those sovereign virtues, industry and fidelity procure to their votaries, says a correspondent, was never more remarkably exemplified than in the person of Mr. Alderman Nash—Early in life he came up to town, with a very low beginning of a mere trifle of cash. He fortunately soon got employed in an inferior capacity in a considerable warehouse, wherein his good conduct gained him the approbation and confidence of his master, who gradually promoted him, until he was thought worthy of being set up in business on his own account. Governed by these principles, which he never lost sight of, he, step by step, in trade and commerce, has acquired an immense fortune, and is now, in his way, supposed to be the greatest dealer in the universe. Political distinctions apart, this short character does Mr. Nash real honour as a citizen and a merchant; and whose cause soever, in a popular election, a man does endeavour to support, to use violence or outrage on any candiate whether successful or not, is a most infamous violation of the right of a free and peaceable election, and injurious to the cause such rash people mean to support.

According to an account delivered in a few days ago, it appears, that the Court of Chancery has at this time in trust for different persons, the sum of 5,303,000l.

Oct. 5. One Blechenden a distressed prisoner for debt in Wood-street Compter, was applied to by the friends of Mr. Nash, who offered him, if he would vote for that Alderman, not only to pay the debt for which he was detained, but furnish him with clothes fit to appear on that occasion. The distressed situation of the man (who was starving and almost naked) induced him to consent to their diabolical proposals. They attended him to the hustings, when, to the great mortification of those who endeavoured to corrupt him, he polled for the Lord Mayor and Mr. Alderman Sawbridge.

It is talked that his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland will have the command of four ships early in the ensuing spring, which are to be stationed on a cruise off the Madeira Islands.

By advices received yesterday form Mahon we are informed, that on the 17th ult. a Danish Frigate brought into that port a French Schooner, loaded with bale goods, which was taken by the Danish Admiral off Algiers. She was bound from Leghorn, and cash was found on board to the amount of 20,000 dollars, likewise two large cases of gun barrels. We are further informed, that the specie and goods on board the said Schooner, were intended as a present from the Republic of Venice to the Dey of Algiers.

We are informed, that it has positively been resolved to keep a strong naval force always ready, in case of any emergency.

Oct. 7. The conduct of Mr. Wilkes at Guildhall met with much applause from both parties; he marshalled his men, and gave the word of command like an experienced General; the citizens went to the poll books with the same ease as to their account books; the mob, though extremely riotous, were softened by his entreaties, and when that would not do, he exerted a manly spirit which entirely quieted them; they frequently attempted to break into the Hall, but by his activity were constantly stopped.

Certain advice is received, that a Sardinian squadron of five ships of war lately sailed for Algiers, to demand satisfaction for the various depradations on the Sardinian merchantmen by the Algerine corsairs.

The last meeting of the Bill of Rights Society was thinner than usual, on account of the absence of many in the country. A letter from JUNIUS to the Society was read, objecting to some parts of the Society's resolution respecting annual Parliaments. That letter, we hear, will be taken into consideration at the next meeting of the Society.

Oct. 8. We are informed, it is now finally determined in a Cabinet, to bring in a bill immediately upon the meeting of Parliament, to put an entire stop to the iniquitous proceedings that are daily carrying on in 'Change Alley, not only so detrimental to individuals and public credit, but so disgraceful to us as a nation. The late great fall in the stocks without any real cause whatever, and which has been accomplished by a junto of desperate gamblers, has determined government to take up this matter seriously, and some of the ablest lawyers are now busy in framing a bill, to render all such future diabolical schemes totally impracticable.

It is said that the French and Spanish Ambassadors have declared, that their respective Courts have no intention of committing acts of hostility against the Russians, by assisting the Turks, but will observe a strict neutrality.

By letters received the middle of last month we are informed that the King of Portugal has published an edict, by which he disallows ambassadors giving protection to criminals and debtors.

They write from Vienna, that the most perfect understanding now subsists between their Court and that of Berlin, which affords the agreeable prospect that peace will soon be restored between the Turks and Russians.

The account of the resolutions of the cabinet to suppress the frauds of stock-jobbers, gives universal satisfaction.

A Stockholder of the East-India Company, in an Address to the Proprietors, says, "The late fall of Stocks was occasioned by a string of senseless lies crammed into the public papers. The Dutch have always great property in our funds, but constantly shift their securities, when they can advance their interest.---One of their Merchants once said, that if he could get money by taking a voyage to Hell, he would run the hazard of burning his sails; and upon the same principle his countrymen would lend money to the devil. Some such opportunity offered ten days ago, and the Dutch sold largely out of our funds. This was an excellent foundation for alarm, and gloriously promotive of the well-known design of a hellish junto at home, who have been notoriously active of late to lower the price of stocks, for which purpose the meanest arts of forgery and falshood have been made use of with too much success."

October 9. A few days ago General S——t gave an invitation to Capt, S—th—rl—d, nephew to the General, (and who had always been intended by him as his heir, whereby he would have succeeded to a fortune of 70,000l.) to spend a few days with him at his country seat, not many miles from the city of Edinburgh: Unfortunately for the General, he was married a few months ago to a sprightly young lady of eighteen. After four days interview between the Captain and the General's lady, they became so enamoured of each other that the lady contrived a scheme for an elopement. She pretended one night to have a variety of letters to write, which would keep her up very late: The lover was to get every thing in readiness, and accordingly about four in the morning, when all was silent, a chaise was ordered in a particular place, and they set off immediately for London; the lady taking with her only her gold repeater, nine guineas in cash, and a few trinkets. When the General got up at his usual hour, he enquired for his lady and the Captain; but alas! they were both fled. The General having got intelligence of the route they took, immediately pursued them, and traced them from stage to stage; the lovers did not think proper to take a night's repose till they arrived at the Red Lion at Barnet, which was on Friday night last: they accordingly stopped to refresh themselves after so fatiguing a journey for a few hours; but on Saturday morning early the General overtook them at the above-mentioned inn, before they were out of bed. The Captain was so terrified at the news of the General's arrival, that he made his escape out of the window without his breeches, and in that situation got privately into a post chaise, and made the best of his way to town. The General having called in the waiter to reconnoitre the lady, after asking him whether he should know her again, and being answered in the affirmative, retired, but sent her a hundred pounds to bear her charges home to her friends. One circumstance rather fortunate happened in this affair: The Captain, when it was determined the night before to rest at Barnet, loaded his pistols in the resolution to defend himself against all assailants; but the lady insisting on their being unloaded again, as she declared she would not sleep with loaded pistols in the room, the Captain took out the charges, which probably prevented bloodshed on the pursuers breaking open the door of the bed-chamber in which they lay. The Gener[al] proceeded to London.---This affair will, in all probability, cause some further business in Doctors-Commons.

It is said that the General had settled upon his Lady, a very great jointure, 5000l. per annum, which her ingratitude has justly made her forfeit.

It is also said, that he had settled upon the fruits of the marriage, 100,000l.

The ingratitude of Capt.———, who carried off this Lady, is truly detestable. The General had promoted him by his interest to the rank he enjoyed in the army, and, in short, had been his greatest benefactor.

The Captain who lately dishonoured the bed of a certain General Officer will, it is said, be cashiered by an order from the Secretary at war; so much offence having been taken at his scandalous inhospitality by a Great Personage.

When Capt. S. made his escape out of the window at Barnet on Friday last, in his shirt, it was about four o'clock in the morning, and it now appears, that he got under a hay rick, were he covered himself up, and lay in that condition till nine o'clock the next night; being by this time almost starved for want of clothes, he crept out in order to beg protection in the first house he could reach, and it happened, though entirely unknown to him, that he came to the same house he had left, and is now under the care of Dr. Garret, of Barnet, his flesh being much torn by crossing the hedges in that naked condition. The General, who had advanced him money to purchase his commission in his own regiment, called the next day upon his agent, and directed him to inform Captain S. that he should have leave to sell out.

Oct. 10. We are informed that one great artist in the jewelling branch has received back, by the ships lately returned from the East Indies, no less than seventy-five large packages of Jewellery goods, for which no purchasers could be found, the markets of China, Bengal, Canton, &c. being greatly over-stocked.

On Tuesday last the City Solicitor filed informations of disfranchisement in the Mayor's Court against the Master and Wardens of the three refractory companies of Goldsmiths, Grocers, and Weavers, for refusing to obey the Lord Mayor's precept for a common hall. Mr. Alderman Plumbe, as late master of the Goldsmiths Company is one of the delinquents.

CHARLESTON, So. Carolina, Nov. 22.

The famous ASS ROSANO, just arrived from Spain, will Cover this season at Dr. Loocock's plantation at two Guineas each Mare.—The Pedigree of the Ass is as follows; he was got by Senbior, a noted Ass of Don Alphonso Rodriguez de Alcazer, which Senbior was got by Don Pedro, belonging to the Duke de Medina Celi; got by Bravado, Philip the fourth's favorite State Ass; whose Sire was Pope Innocent's Pad, whose Grand Sire was Sancho Pancha's Dapple, got by Xeriff, which was sent to Isabella of Spain, by Roxana favourite Sultana to Abderman King of Morocco, and got by Osman the Great's Sultan; who was got by Ottoman an Ass belonging to Omar, whose Sire was Medina, who carried the Prophet Mahomet to Mecca; whole Sire was Simiramis's Priapus; whose Grand Sire was Nebuchadnezzar's Bell; and his Great Grand Sire was Balaam's Nameless, whose Great-Great-Grand Sire came with Noah out of the Ark.

BOSTON, December 23.

The Storm on Thursday se'nnight, which was chiefly rain in this and the neighbouring towns, was to the eastward mostly snow, which with what fell the week before, makes the travelling from that way very difficult. It is said eight or ten coasting vessels were ashore between Old-York and Casco Bay: A top-sail schooner, arrived at York, in the storm ran foul of a sloop and sunk her, whereby the people perished, but could not tell who she was.

We hear that the snow from the West Indies, Bartlet, Master, lately drove ashore in Barnstable-bay, which it was expected would be saved with her cargo, is since stove to pieces, and a great quantity of the Molasses lost; the people were all saved.

NEW HAVEN, December 20.

Capt. Amaziah Josselin, lately arriv'd from Guadaloupe informs, that while he lay there the governor with the troops (who were sent there last winter on expectation of a war) embark'd for old France; and that a new governor was daily expected, upon, whose arrival, it was confidently reported, the port of Bassaterre would be made free, for the term of three years, under certain regulations.

In the late snow storm, which begun on the 5th instant, a coasting sloop belonging to Fairfield, was cast away on Hog-Island, (near Long-Island, and opposite the Harbour of Rye) the vessel and cargo entirely lost, together with all the people on board, viz Noah Desbrow, Master, Platt Betts, and Philip Scribner.

We hear Capt. Landon from Liverpool, but last from Newport, bound for this port, ran ashore on Long Island in the same storm, but is like to be got off without much damage.

PHILADELPHIA, January 2.

The 14th ult. the schooner Industry, James Gilbert, Master, bound from James River, (Virginia), for this Port, was cast away on a sand bar without Cape-May, the greatest part of the sails and rigging, the anchors cables, and people were saved, but the vessel with her cargo of wheat is lost.

To Mr. HOLT.

THE many noble Specimens of Taste and Elegance which attract the Attention of Strangers, who visit this City, convey very striking assurances of our Zeal for, and the Encouragement we give to the Polite Arts. The Circulation of the News-Papers, (in which I observe with Pleasure, Advertisements, particularly addressed to Ladies, and Gentlemen of Taste) communicate this to distant Regions, and prove presumptively, that such Persons reside among us.

At the same Time give me Leave to observe, that if the same Taste prevails on any other Part of the Continent, which I greatly doubt, as our ALEXANDER and BUCEPHALUS, yet remain unrivaled, your Papers have furnished an Assertion, which may eventually occasion much Trouble.

If I mistake not, I read in Capital Characters, Pictures advertised for Sale, whose Prints cost, from 2, to 500 Pounds Engraving. Tho' I was sorry the Owners of such Pictures were reduced to the Necessity of selling them, some being in the Collection of the Royal Family, and others in those of the Chief Nobility, in what Manner they should escape the DiWitanti in England, to solicit the Lovers of Virtu here, requires Elucidation, which you and your Neighbour, Gaine, should afford the Public. Otherwise a Quaker from Philadelphia may cross 5 Ferries, in Search of Claude Lorrain, and a New England Colonel may travel 200 Miles to find Carlo Maratto, and both be egregiously disappointed.

I must beg leave also to Hint to our Academy of Inscriptions here, to restore Magna Charta to its primitive State. I allow their Patriotism its full Credit, and think with them, that, at a Time when the Stamp-Act was in Force, and Taxes were imposed upon us, it became us as English Men to make the Letter E entirely Independent, and not suffer it to associate with the rascally A,* so avowedly an Administration Letter. Affairs having, by the bad Example of our Neighbours, now taken a different Turn. I hope the Inscription will henceforth unite those two Letters in Friendship, that so they may, like us and our Mother Country, again act CHEEK by JOWL together. I am, your's,

A YORKIST.

NEW-YORK, January 9.

Extract of a Letter from North-Carolina, November 11.

"It may not be unacceptable to you to have the Account I have lately received from a Gentleman, my intimate Friend, who is now on his Circuit through the western Counties of this Province. He says he has the Pleasure to inform me that the spirit of Regulation there is entirely subdued, Peace and Order restored, the surviving Regulators, Out-laws excepted, returned to the Cultivation of their Lands and respective Occupations, happy that an End is put to an Insurrection in which most of them were involved through Ignorance and the Subtilty of a few, without any Idea of the Designs and Intentions of it. That no Resentment seems to be retained either against Government for the Measures adopted against them, or those who bravely executed these Measures. It is further the Opinion of all the judicious honest People of the Province, that the Battle of Alamance has not deprived us of one valuable Inhabitant except those who suffered for Government in the Battle. You may rely on the authenticity of what I write."

The following Account of a late melancholy Accident, was given, by one of the Persons who was present when it happened, viz.

On Thursday, the Day after Christmas last, at Smith's-Town, Long-Island, 7 young Men went out with Guns to Hunt for Foxes; on the Way, one of the young Men, whose Name was David Smith, seeing a Fox, attempted to fire, but did not thinking the Distance too great, and forgetting to uncock the Gun, they all went to a Station, where he and 3 others waited, while the other Men went to a Thicket at the End of a long Beach, in order to drive out the Foxes which usually harbour'd there, and must in their Retreat necessarily pass the Place where the 4 young Men were station'd, which was on the Declivity of a Hill. They being all seated on the Ground which was frozen and slippery, Mr. Smith having rested the But of his Gun on the Ground, leaning the upper Part on his Shoulder, it slipped from him down the Hill, and as he snatch'd at, and hastily drew it up, it went off; the Muzzle being just above his right Pap, the whole Charge enter'd there, shatter'd the upper Joint of the Arm and Shoulder in a dreadful Manner, and lodged among the broken Bones. After remaining a Moment in a kind of Astonishment, he sprung up, ran a few Steps, and said, I am a dead Man. Some of the Company applied some Tow to the Wound, and bound it with a Handkerchief to stop the Effusion of Blood, placed him on a Horse, and convey'd him to the House of his Uncle, Mr. Alexa. Munsel, about a Quarter of a Mile Distant. Where, about 2 or 3 Hours after, Doct. Lawrence, being out on a hunting Party, was brought to him, who endeavour'd to set the Bones, but the Parts were much swell'd and inflamed: he was also attended by the Doctors White, Prime, and Wigins. He remain'd in great Pain, but perfectly in his Senses, till the 1st Instant, when he died of a Mortification, in the 24th Year of his Age, leaving a young Widow and one Child.

The General Assembly of this Province, on Tuesday, being the Day appointed in their last Prorogation, met at the City-Hall, and adjourn'd to the next Day, when his Excellency the Governor opened the Session with an obliging Speech. [of which we were not able to obtain a Copy in Time for this Paper. but shall insert it in our next.]

The Harriot Packet Boat, Capt. Lee, is this Day to sail with the Mail for Falmouth.

POET'S CORNER.

Means to enjoy a HAPPY LIFE.

SERIOUSLY, my Son, attend,
To the Counsels of a Friend;
Would you lead a happy Life,
Care avoid, and shun the Strife
Which from Law must ever rise,
Fatal Flame that never dies.
If possess'd of moderate Wealth,
And more ample Stock of Health,
Keep a cheerful Look serene,
Void of any haughty Mien,
Seek Companions blithe and free,
And of equal Rank with thee;
Prudence follow, nor advance
Into wild Extravagance;
By a plain, but wholesome Diet,
Sleep you'll purchase sound, and Quiet;
Let your Conduct ever run
To all obliging, rude to none;
Choose a modest, virtuous Wife,
Skill'd to smooth the Rubs of Life.
With these Blessings well possess'd,
Own yourself completely bless'd;
And whate'er your settled Spot,
Well contented with your Lot,
Calmly be resign'd to Fate,
When it summons, soon or late,
Thus let surly Death appear,
Without a Wish, without a Fear,
